

Remote Learning

This week's newsletter is entirely devoted to the school's revised remote learning offer. Over the past few days, you may have seen your child help their class teacher test links and access content. We have been delighted with the take up during the beta phase and I am sure that there will still be bumps that need ironing out. My staff are committed to offering high-quality face to face learning. Ryefield's remote learning offer consists of three daily face to face sessions, along with some offline tasks, that can be completed either independently or under parental supervision.

Please note that your children will be required to login to their lesson 5 minutes before the learning commences. This allows teachers to take the register. All lessons will be uploaded to the cloud to support independent learning, whilst also allowing pupils who were unable to attend the live lesson access the learning.

As a rule of thumb, the morning sessions will be following a three-part model. The start of the lesson will be teacher-led, with resources used to model the learning, along with the opportunity for your child to ask questions or be given feedback by their teacher. During the middle part of the session, your child will be set some work by your teacher and they will be expected to complete it independently. The class teacher will remain online (possibly with camera or mic muted to avoid distraction) and your child can approach them for assistance and support, just as they would in the classroom. The final part of the session will involve the class coming together to recap on their learning, clarify misconceptions, share good examples and mark their work at the point of learning.

The afternoon sessions will involve a story read by a member of staff, and then some topic work. Some of the afternoon tasks will need to be done independently and away from the computer. During these sessions, your child's teacher will detail their expectations for that afternoon's offline learning.

On top of those tasks we expect the following:

- Independent reading (20 minutes a day)
 - Times Tables practice (15 minutes a day) via TT Rockstars
 - Spelling practice (15 minutes a day) via Spelling Shed

These are challenging times for everyone, remember the 'little and often' approach when working with young children. Don't expect children to be able to concentrate for long periods of time and I can't remind you enough that children LEARN THROUGH PLAY. Quality play is so important, make all of the activities as play based as possible, this will engage and excite your child, this way they'll have fun and won't even realise they're learning.

I have included a range of activities, some require more adult involvement than others. It is important to give your child a range of learning experiences throughout the day, some adult directed, some supported and some independent. This variety helps your child's development. You will find things that need lots of direction initially will shift to become more independent activities over time, as this happens, you can increase the challenge and expectations.

These will be posted on Google Classroom at the beginning of each week:

- Recorded Powerpoint of directed tasks - includes Literacy, Maths, CL & EAD activities
- Daily phonics activities - focussing on listening skills/ rhythm/ rhyme/ alliteration
